

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE.

A method of fabricating a nano-scaled semiconductor by depositing upon a substrate, within the confines of a narrowly limited electric field, from 5 an adjustable mixture of precursor gases containing different precursor compounds, nano-scaled deposits of common chemical compounds released in consequence of the precursor compounds breaking down upon the simultaneous or sequential application of a voltage exceeding a predetermined threshold value.

10